HAPPENINGS OF WEEK AMONG THE LODGES.

puri Enjoys the Most Prosperous Year in Its History.

The last month was one to fill the hearts of the Senator and the Deputy with holiary cheer, as it was the most prosperous month the order, locally, has enjoyed in he last two years. The contests between arlous councils came to a close on December 31, and extraordinary efforts were put orth by the councils interested to gather very possible candidate into the feld beoore the year expired. To do this it was secessary to hold many special meetings, and the office of the deputy and reporter was a scene of activity, as several councils leid their meetings there.

The preparations for the jubilee were idetracked a little, owing to the elections and the holidays, but enough councils have aken favorable action to insure one of the argest demonstrations that the city ever citnessed in the fraternal line. Senators luey and Hufft and Deputy Hanaway will ake the matter up with the remaining ouncils during the week, and there is no oubt that every council in the city will mite in the demonstration.

Missouri Council was the only council hat met on New Year's night, and the exlanation given was that it was proposed o utilize every possible minute this year of continue the good work so aby inanurated by the retiring president, Luke Evens, who points with just pride to the fact hat the past year was the most successful in the history of the council.

council. The winning council is, by the terms of the contest, obliged to entertain the losers, and as the hospitality of both councils is well known, a most enjoyable time is in store for the members.

Lookout council is another council that has reason to feel happy over the results of the past year. Hardly a meeting has passed in the council without an initiation and most of the time there were four or five The officers for next year are all active men, and there is every promise of even better results in the coming year.

Laclede Council held a very enthusiastic special meeting in the headquarters, at which ax new members were added. President long, who takes the chair this month, takes the promise that the coming year will be the banner one in the council's history, and those who know him feel sure that his promise will be fulfilled.

Mound City Council had a very enjoyable evening at the Odeon last week, which was well attended. A very delightful programme was rendered by the octet, which included some of the best numbers of the Hot Time Minstrels. Beautiful cut-giass souvenirs were presented to the ladies. The president made a pleasing address to the ladies, in which he welcomed them, and on behalf of he council wished them a happy New Year.

Process Enables Enterprise to Break All Records in Voyage

From Hilo to San Francisco.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL.

San Francisco, Jan. 3.—A new process of burning oil enabled the steamer Enterprise to break all her records between this port and Hilo. The Enterprise arrived from the island port, after a voyage of seven days and twenty-two hours.

Her best previous record was ten days, one hour and thirteen minutes. In running down to Hilo the Enterprise made the trip in eight days, three hours and twenty-five minutes.

Will Be Erected by the Anheuser-down to Hilo the Enterprise made the trip in eight days, three hours and twenty-five minutes.

Her best previous run for the outward voyage was nine days, six bours and nine minutes.

The Enterprise was recently fitted with an oil-burning plant, in which a new process of burning oil is being used for the first time.

In other oil-burning plants the oil is burned in the furnace. The new process has as its fundamental principle the conversion of liquid oil into a gaseous state and then the burning of the gas in an auxiliary furnace.

The apparatus consists of what the 'n-ventors call a "regenerative furnace front," superheaters and burners.

The "front" is a heavy cast-iron auxiliary furnace attached to the mouth of the furnace in the bolier, and therein is a large chamber in which the air for combustion is heated to about 600 degrees Fahrenheit.

In this chamber, which is separated from the flame by a cast-iron cone, pierced with angular holes for admitting the heated air to the boiler furnace, there are specially designed superheaters for the compressed air or steam for atomizing the oil and the crude petroleum.

The air or steam is heated to 800 degrees Fahrenheit, and the oil is generated into gas at a temperature of about 500 degrees Fahrenheit.

No oil is actually burned in the boiler furnace; the superheater delivers it to the burner in the form of gas, which takes fire within the auxiliary furnace, and then the flame is carried into the boiler furnace.

One of the most important features of this system is that it does away entirely with the necessity of having to heat the oil before it reaches the burners, thus coing away with the oil-heater tank, which, since the disaster to the Progreso, has come in for so much condemnation.

This system of burning oil has been called to the attention of the United States Navy Department.

Commander Stevenson investigated the process, and his report is now on its way to Washington.

It is stated that the Navy Department intends fitting two torpedo boats on this coast with oil burners in order to experiment.
